HOUSE ENGAGES IN GENERAL TARIFF DEBATE

LEADERS ARE UNWILLING TO FACE SHOWDOWN

SENATE TAKES REST PREPARATORY TO VOTE MONDAY ON FARM BILL

FARM BLOC MEMBERS CHAFE AT INCREASED RATES ON SUGAR AND MACHINERY

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 11.—Unwilling to face a showdown yet, house leaders allowed general tariff debate to run into its third day today while the senate took a rest preparatory to a vote Monday on the farm bill.

The strong republican majority in the house showed signs of breaking up over the tariff just like the administration majority in the senate broke up disastrously over the debenture plan this week. A majority caucus late yesterday disclosed the leaders would face stiff opposition within their own ranks to the tight program they had formulated for putting the tariff measure through under pressure within 10 days.

Farm bloc members manifested a growing dissatisfaction with the increased rates on sugar, machinery and utensils which their farmers must buy.

An effort to appease the dissatisfied elements was made by Majority Leader Tilton and Chairman Snell of the rules committee, who issued a statement that pressure on the bill would be eased on the floor and offering of amendments would be permitted.

If the bill is opened for amendments, the farm bloc will stage a vigorous fight on the floor tonight to down the 3 cents a pound sugar rate and some of the industrial increases, at the same time seeking to increase rates of agricultural products.

If the high pressure rules are applied to subdue them, they plan to bolt to the democrats and ditch the administration bill.

Administration leaders in the senate have come through just the situation the house leaders seem to be facing. A second defeat for President Hoover's most ardent supporters was suffered late yesterday when the senate voted 46 to 33 to limit the salary of the federal farm board chairman to $12,000 a year. Mr. Hoover had anticipated selecting a man whose experience would demand a much larger salary.

In deference to his wishes the house had put a provision in the farm bill allowing the president to fix the salary of the chairman.

With the debenture amendment in the bill and some other features unsatisfactory to the administration, the leaders say they will turn against the bill on the final vote Monday, but it is expected to pass easily over their objections.

Washington, May 11.—Administration forces in the house offered today to make peace with the farm bloc in order to save the tariff bill from a disastrous break such as occurred in the senate on the farm bill this week.

Chairman Hawley of the ways and means committee held a conference with Rep. L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, head of the bloc, and agreed to call a meeting of the committee Tuesday to hear grievances of the westerners. It was obvious administration leaders had decided some of the rates of the pending bill must be changed in order to prevent the formation of a farm bloc-democratic coalition which would take the bill completely out of their hands.

By changing the bill in some particular and appeasing the westerners if they can be appeased, the administration leaders hope to be able to put through a stringent rule limiting debate and forcing the tariff measure speedily through the house over democratic opposition.

Unless some such peace arrangement is made, the westerners can join with the democrats and control the house, rewriting the bill almost as they see fit.

RELIGIOUS PEACE IN MEXICO BETWEEN CHURCH AND STATE

NOW MORE THAN LIKELY THAN AT ANY TIME SINCE JULY 31, 1928

AT THAT TIME PRIESTS DESERTED CHURCHES IN PROTEST OF RELIGIOUS LAWS

Washington, May 11.—(U.P.)—Religious peace in Mexico between the church and state is more likely today than at any time since midnight of July 31, 1928, when the priests deserted their churches in protest of Mexico's religious laws, it was intimated here in unofficial quarters. Ambassador Morrow is understood still to be acting in a purely private capacity toward settlement of the dispute. In the role of a friend, Morrow could counsel his personal friends in the Mexican government although he could not touch upon the subject as ambassador of the United States. Peace between the church and state south of the Rio Grande would be welcome to President Hoover.

Domestic peace in Mexico cannot be assured, it is believed here, until the religious controversy is ended. Optimism among Mexican, neutral and Catholic circles in Washington is predicated upon recent statements from President Portes Gil.

Informed Catholics describe his public announcement absolving the Catholic church from complicity in the recent rebellion as indicative of a fair attitude and as greatly clearing the atmosphere.

MINNESOTAN IS NOW EXECUTIVE ASSISTANT TO PRESIDENT HOOVER

Washington, May 11.—(U.P.)—Rep. Walter Newton of Minnesota, executive assistant to Pres. Hoover, today formally announced his resignation as a member of the house, to become effective June 30.

Newton's resignation was transmitted to Speaker Longworth in a letter dated May 10, made public at the White House today.

Topeka, Kansas, May 11.—(U.P.)—Sections of central Kansas fought floods today in the wake of torrential rains which turned creeks into wide rivers, claiming two known dead and sweeping away homes at Herington, southwest of here.

The cloudbursts apparently were isolated deluges in the vicinity of Herington and Council Grove, in Dickinson and Morris counties.

Two unidentified Mexicans were drowned, at least a dozen homes were swept away, and the business area was flooded at Herington when a cloudburst fell there early today.

Lime Creek, running through the town, was turned into a river when rain estimated between 8 and 12 inches fell there within a few hours. First reports estimated the damage there at one quarter million dollars.

Council Grove, according to Missouri Pacific railroad reports, suffered one of the heaviest rains and worst flood conditions of the upper Neosho river since 1903. Details were unavailable. The road ordered its trains halted at Council Grove.

Herington reported Lime Creek boiled over to a width of four miles. Most of the residents there escaped but the two Mexicans were unable to swim when entrapped by the sudden rise. The high waters flooded the poorer sections of the town.

JOSEPH GUINTA AND TWO COMPANIONS WERE SLAIN BY RIVAL GANGSTERS

BODY WILL BE BURIED IN GLASS-TOPPED CASKET COSTING $10,000

Chicago, May 11.—(U.P.)—Dressed in evening clothes, diamond studs gleaming in the shirt front and gems glistering from rings, the body of Joseph Guinta was buried today in a bronze, glass-topped casket reported to have cost $10,000.

In keeping with his rank, head of the Sicilians, Guinta was given one of the most elaborate funerals ever accorded a Chicago gangster. It probably did not equal that of the gang leaders, but it was lavish to a degree. Guinta left $250,000 in a safe deposit box.

ARMY ENGINEERS LETTING CONTRACTS FOR DREDGING AND CONSTRUCTION

LOCK SILLS AND DAMS TO BE BUILT AT VERSAILLES, CAMPSVILLE, ILL.

Washington, May 11.—(U.P.)—The Hoover administration has undertaken to have its part of the Lakes-to-Gulf inland waterways ready for operation two years from today.

Army engineers are expediting letting of contracts for dredging and construction of lock sills and dams, the United Press was informed at the war department. The status of the dredging projects is as follows:

1. Lower Illinois river, contract let.
2. Upper Illinois river, engineers preparing to advertise for bids.
3. Chicago river (north branch), contract let.

Lock sills and dams must be constructed at Versailles and Campsville, Ill., and specifications are being prepared. Funds are available for completion of all this work and army engineers estimate that two years will be required to complete it.

Illinois has appealed to the federal government for assistance, explaining sufficient funds to complete its share of the project cannot be obtained without a constitutional amendment which would delay opening of the lakes-to-gulf waterway.

Secretary of War Good intimated the federal government would refuse to shoulder state burdens. The expectation is that Illinois will find a way to solve her own difficulty.

'ROBOT' VOICE WILL CUT DOWN USING SLUGS IN MACHINES

New York, May 11.—(U.P.)—Persons tempted to pass slugs in the automatic change machine in a Times Square drug store hereafter will be confounded, not to say embarrassed, by the booming "Robot" voice which will shout:

ARMY ENGINEERS LETTING CONTRACTS FOR DREDGING AND CONSTRUCTION

LOCK SILLS AND DAMS TO BE BUILT AT VERSAILLES, CAMPSVILLE, ILL.

Washington, May 11.—(U.P.)—The Hoover administration has undertaken to have its part of the Lakes-to-Gulf inland waterways ready for operation two years from today.

Army engineers are expediting letting of contracts for dredging and construction of lock sills and dams, the United Press was informed at the war department. The status of the dredging projects is as follows:

1. Lower Illinois river, contract let.
2. Upper Illinois river, engineers preparing to advertise for bids.
3. Chicago river (north branch), contract let.

Lock sills and dams must be constructed at Versailles and Campsville, Ill., and specifications are being prepared. Funds are available for completion of all this work and army engineers estimate that two years will be required to complete it.

Illinois has appealed to the federal government for assistance, explaining sufficient funds to complete its share of the project cannot be obtained without a constitutional amendment which would delay opening of the lakes-to-gulf waterway.

Secretary of War Good intimated the federal government would refuse to shoulder state burdens. The expectation is that Illinois will find a way to solve her own difficulty.

'ROBOT' VOICE WILL CUT DOWN USING SLUGS IN MACHINES

New York, May 11.—(U.P.)—Persons tempted to pass slugs in the automatic change machine in a Times Square drug store hereafter will be confounded, not to say embarrassed, by the booming "Robot" voice which will shout:

"Please use good coins only." The inventor originally had the Robot fixed to shout "Stop, thief!" or "Arrest that man!" but reflected that sometimes innocent possessors of bad coins might unwittingly be embarrassed.

BRITISH WAR AVIATOR KILLED

Lowell, Mass., May 11.—(U.P.)—Captain Ronald Smith, British world war aviator, was killed here today when a Moth plane he was testing crashed as he was attempting to land at the Lowell airport.

Smith, who formerly was attached to the British DeHavilland works in England, had been employed by the Moth company here as chief test pilot for the past eight weeks.

The accident occurred while he was testing the plane with a capacity load of 1,700 pounds of sand.

11 TONS OF GOLD COME FROM GERMANY

New York, May 11.—(U.P.)—Eleven tons of gold amounting to $6,690,000 arrived here today aboard the Hamburg American liner Reliance from Germany and was escorted to the federal reserve bank by a fleet of heavily armed messengers in armored cars.

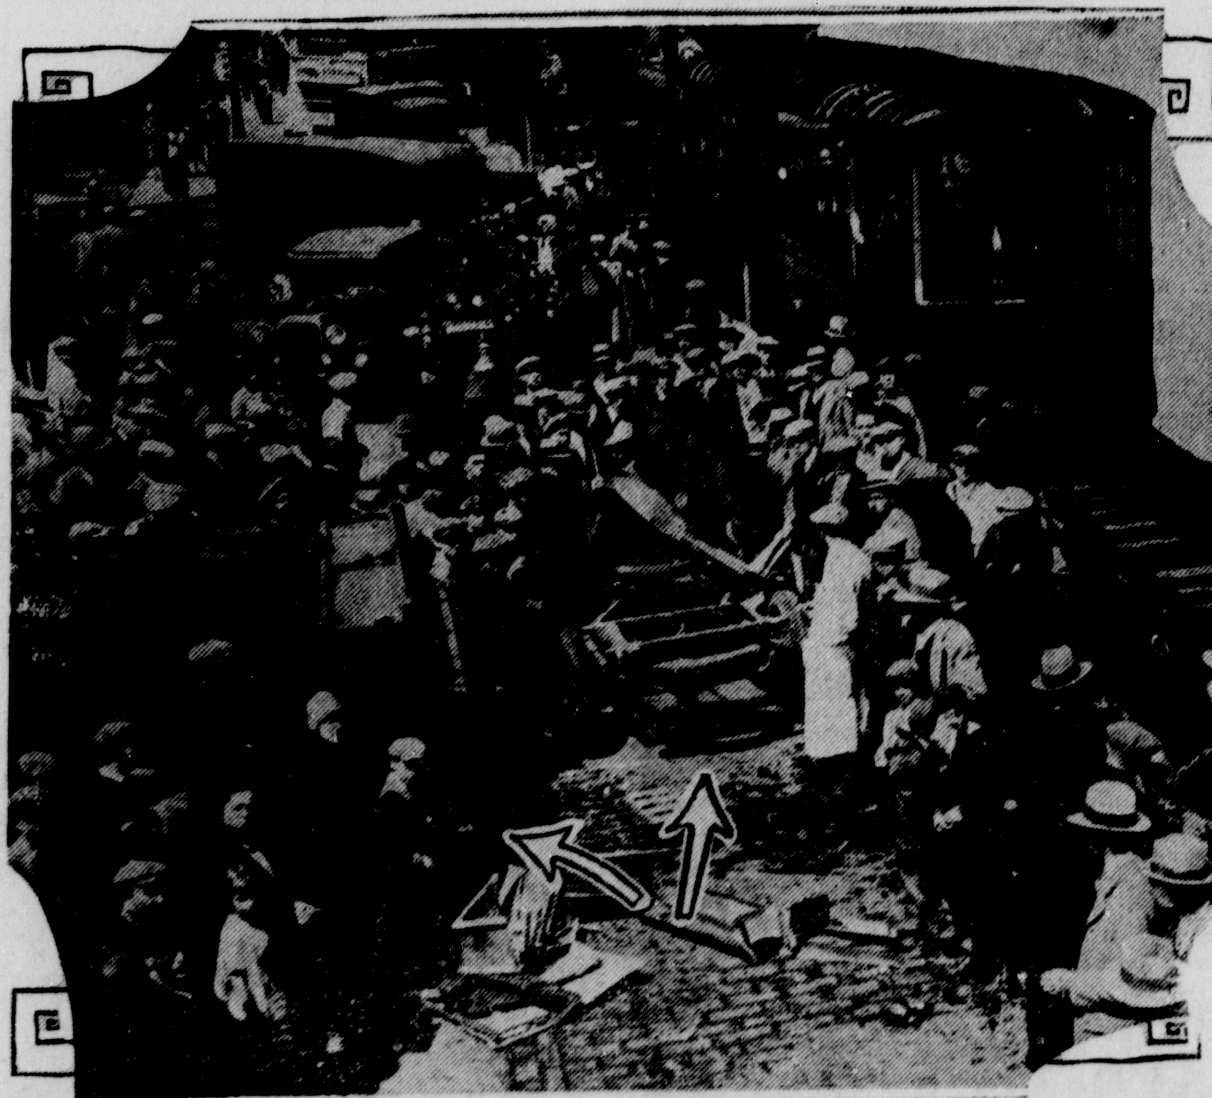

The shipment is the fourth in three weeks from the Reichsbank to the New York banks, making a total of $25,000,000 shipped here to cover loans made to Germany's industries.

YEGG IS STUMPED; UNABLE TO OPEN GAS STATION SAFE

Newark, N. J., May 11.—(U.P.)—A yegg who was sportsman enough to admit defeat gracefully, scared up the safe of a gasoline station here today and left two messages.

"You've got a good safe. Worked from 2 to 5 but didn't get anything," read one.

"See you some other time. Good bye and good luck," read the other.

Arrows indicate truck which was broken in half when it became jammed between a street car and an elevated support in Chicago. Two men were pinned under the wreckage for more than a half hour before rescue crews could remove them. Both were seriously injured.

MOTHER

Who is the one who has done so much for you, To sleep she rocked you, helped teach you to talk, Guided your footsteps when you learned to walk, Upon her mind you were always asleep or awake, She heard the faintest whimper in the night you made, The best she has had at your feet she gladly laid, Whose love will follow you to the ends of the earth, I can hear your answer, Why it's mother's.

Who is the one who bent over your little crib, So ill you were she was afraid she'd lose you, There was terror in her heart and she felt so blue, It was then her love for you was the deepest and best, For your good only all chastisements to you she dealt, When you suffered through wrong doing sorry she felt, Who is the one to whom tribute and respect be paid, I can hear your answer, Why it's mother.

Who is the one who does uphold you the most, Who helps keep unstained the family name you bear, Ready to aid you when not so well you may fare, It there too at your service when in a home of your own, Disappointments come to you but not to you alone, Profit by her advice when from her side you may roam, Who is the one whose love for you fades not away, I can hear your answer, Why it's mother.

What, after all, is a watch for . . . but timekeeping? And of what use is time-keeping, if one doubts the watch's accuracy and has to say, "What time have you? I think I'm a little slow." For generations, the fine, old American names of Elgin, Hamilton, Waltham, Howard, have stood for undeviating accuracy in time. They still do. No watch has ever come to America's shores that matched for accuracy the American-made watch. Let us show you a few of these triumphs of American genius.

American Watches Are More Accurate

What, after all, is a watch for... but timekeeping? And of what use is time-keeping, if one doubts the watch's accuracy and has to say, "What time have you? I think I'm a little slow." For generations, the fine, old American names of Elgin, Hamilton, Waltham, Howard, have stood for undeviating accuracy in time. They still do. No watch has ever come to America's shores that matched for accuracy the American-made watch. Let us show you a few of these triumphs of American genius.

MOTHER

Who is the one who has done so much for you, To sleep she rocked you, helped teach you to talk, Guided your footsteps when you learned to walk, Upon her mind you were always asleep or awake. She heard the faintest whimper in the night you made, The best she has had at your feet she gladly laid. Whose love will follow you to the ends of the earth, I can hear your answer, Why it's mother's.

Who is the one who bent over your little crib, So ill you were she was afraid she'd lose you, There was terror in her heart and she felt so blue, It was then her love for you was the deepest and best, For your good only all chastisements to you she dealt, When you suffered through wrong doing sorry she felt, Who is the one to whom tribute and respect be paid, I can hear your answer, Why it's mother.

Who is the one who does uphold you the most, Who helps keep unstained the family name you bear, Ready to aid you when not so well you may fare, It there too at your service when in a home of your own, Disappointments come to you but not to you alone, Profit by her advice when from her side you may roam, Who is the one whose love for you fades not away, I can hear your answer, Why it's mother.

JESSIE EVANS.

At a record low price for so large and so beautiful a Knight-engined car the new style Willys-Knight "70-B" is bringing the superiorities of the patented double sleeve-valve motor to thousands of added owners.

In each cylinder of this simplest and most efficient of power plants, two metal sleeves combine with the dome-shaped cylinder head to form a perfectly sealed combustion chamber. The full force of the explosion is directed straight downward against the piston, making the most efficient use of the highly compressed gas.

In the Willys-Knight "70-B" a rugged seven-bearing crankshaft reduces vibration to a minimum, while the car's improved frame construction gives extra strength and rigidity.

The Knight engine gives high uniform compression at all times, at all speeds, and with any gas—and it is the only type of engine that keeps growing smoother and quieter with use.

MORE Smartness and Style MORE Power and Speed

At a record low price for so large and so beautiful a Knight-engined car the new style Willys-Knight "70-B" is bringing the superiorities of the patented double sleeve-valve motor to thousands of added owners.

In each cylinder of this simplest and most efficient of power plants, two metal sleeves combine with the dome-shaped cylinder head to form a perfectly sealed combustion chamber. The full force of the explosion is directed straight downward against the piston, making the most efficient use of the highly compressed gas.

In the Willys-Knight "70-B" a rugged seven-bearing crankshaft reduces vibration to a minimum, while the car's improved frame construction gives extra strength and rigidity.

The Knight engine gives high uniform compression at all times, at all speeds, and with any gas—and it is the only type of engine that keeps growing smoother and quieter with use.

IMPROVING HIGHWAYS

The State Highway Department is assured a substantial fund with which to give the people roads the coming two years or until the legislature meets again. There are few things which develop a community faster or contribute more to the satisfaction of the people than good roads. The only unfortunate thing in connection with the state program is that it has been delayed in 1929 until it will not be possible to give the people the road extensions they otherwise would have received. Needless bickering and political wire pulling in the legislature is responsible for the delay. There is no reason why the road finance program could not have been settled within 30 days after the session convened. However that is neither here nor there now as the time has been lost and nothing is to be gained by grumbling about it. Without doubt there will be a substantial addition to the paved roads the next two years and as these paved roads are built, thus cutting down maintenance costs it means the release of more money for gravel road building in sections like Todd county where travel is still not heavy enough to warrant pavement.—Long Prairie Leader.

LIGHTS OR MIRRORS FOR WAGONS, BUGGIES

EVERY horse-drawn vehicle using the public highways at night must carry at the rear thereof a reflex mirror or lighted lamp exhibiting a yellow or red right visible 200 feet from the rear of such vehicle under normal atmospheric conditions, according to an amendment to the traffic act adopted by the recent legislature.

A provision is added, however, that failure to equip any horse drawn vehicle with a lamp or mirror "shall not of itself constitute negligence as a matter of law."

The 1927 law did not require any lights or reflectors on horse drawn vehicles traveling on the highways, but through an oversight a provision was left in the law requiring lights both front and rear when such vehicles were parked on the highways. This was corrected in the new law so that the same lights or reflectors which are used when traveling will also serve when a wagon or buggy is stopped on the highway. A highway, by the way, is defined as any place open to the public for vehicular travel.

POPPY DAY

THIS is the eighth year that the American Legion has conducted their annual poppy sale. It will be conducted May 15 and 16.

Mrs. Sumner T. McKnight, general chairman of the American Legion Poppy day sale, issued the following proclamation: "Lest the public forget that sacrifice of those who fell in the World war, and those who are still paying the price for their gallant endeavor, we annually ask each resident of our community to wear a replica of the immortal flower of Flanders Fields on Memorial day—not as a toy they could not avoid buying, but in sincere reverence for those who served when service was needed."

The American Legion poppies to be sold have been made by disabled veterans who receive 1 cent for making each poppy. Approximately 200,000 poppies will be sold this year and funds derived from the sale will be used for relief of disabled veterans.

THE TALKIES IN BRAINERD

Do Brainerd people like the talkies? Do they wish to have this advance in the cinema world added to Brainerd attractions?

Well, if you have read locals in the Dispatch this week, you get only a faint glimpse of all the Brainerd people who have motored to Little Falls to see the outstanding success in talkies there.

We hope the owners of the Brainerd movie house will install the talkies here and thus do something to retain in Brainerd theater audiences who are spending more than admission tickets in Little Falls.

The whole trend of the picture world is to the talkies. The Fox people have ceased making plain movies. Mary Pickford has been won over to the talkies and will make no more silent pictures.

ACCORDING to recent figures, the Brainerd public library is well patronized by local people. That is right, for books were meant to be read and not to be kept on shelves like so many private libraries where the owner merely glances at the covers and never explores the contents.

THE baseball season in Little Falls will be ushered in tomorrow when the Little Falls team plays the Minneapolis All Stars. Fans from all over are expected to be on hand to give a welcome to Webster McDonald, submarine twirler for Little Falls.

SUMMER resorts of the Brainerd Lake Region are preparing for a good season. M. V. Baker of Grand View Lodge on Gull Lake has told the Dispatch he expects the largest season in the history of the resort.

AN ingenious housewife of our acquaintance has robbed "Blue Monday" of its washing terrors by having the home laundry work done on Saturday when the children are home from school and can help her.

SIGNS should be posted on the tarvia section of South Broadway keeping heavy trucks and tractors with or without lugs from using that section of street.

MINNESOTA has many acres of public wild life refuges and at the recent session of the legislature added a large refuge in extreme northern counties.

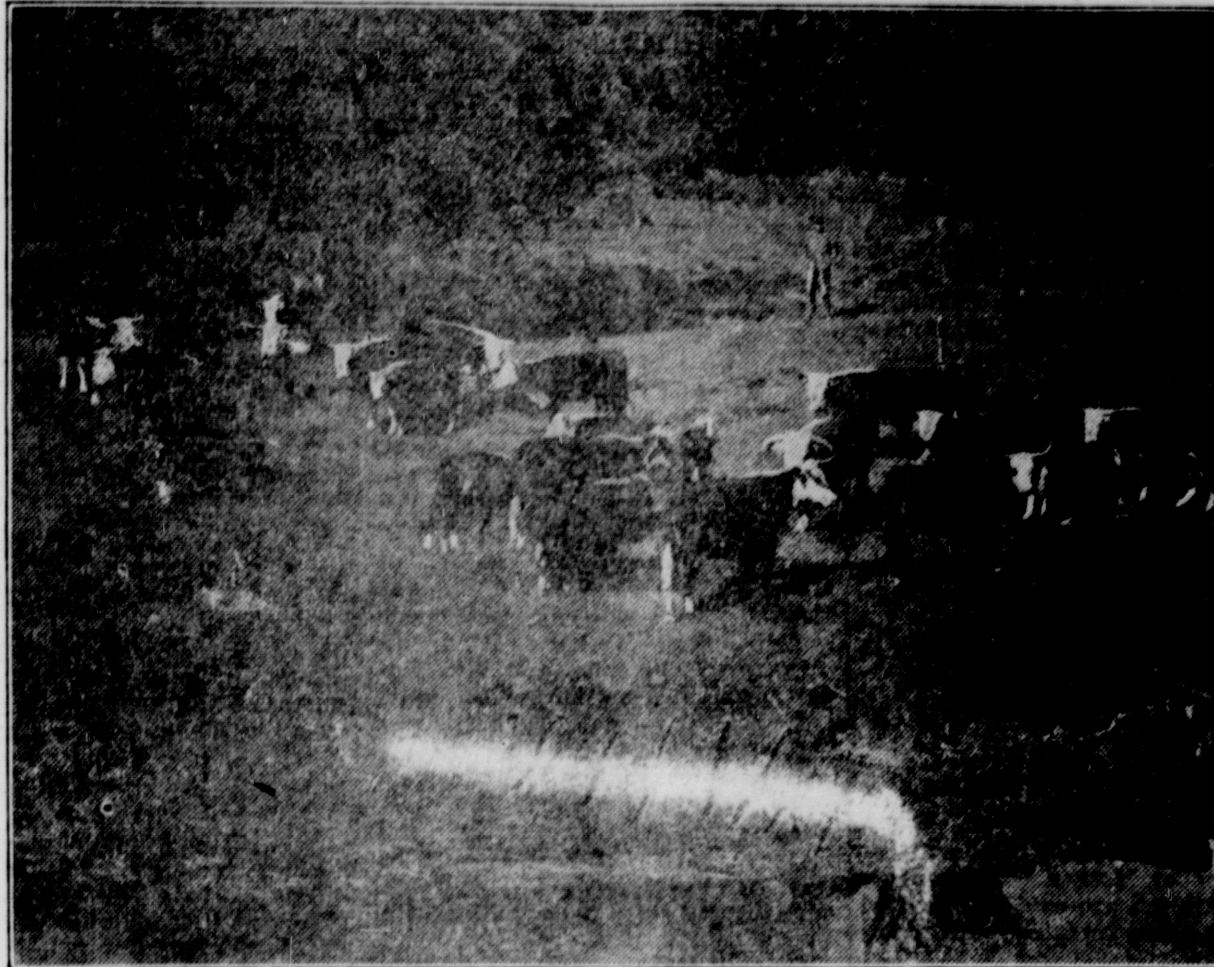

THERE is victory oftentimes in defeat. Witness Alfred E. Smith who is paid more for a magazine article than former President Coolidge.

Roundabout Legislation

There is no provision in the Constitution for the repeal of an amendment, and no amendment has ever been repealed. Most authorities agree that the only way to accomplish such an object would be to pass another amendment to annul the previous amendment.

It pays to know

When you spend your money for the seven and seventy things that are always popping out of nowhere to demand a portion of your income, you want to be certain they are returning the utmost in value for your every dollar.

But how can you know the worth of the products you buy? Can you test them scientifically?

Can you make microscopic examinations for flaws and imperfections? Chemical analyses for purity and composition? Physical machine-tests for stress and strain, strength and durability? Have you laboratories equipped for this work? Can you afford the scientists and research workers to perform it?

There is a less expensive way to safeguard your purchases. A better way to buy.

Buy products that have been tested by others! Products that have passed the most ruthless and rigid of all tests . . . that of actual use! Nationally known, nationally liked, nationally used products! Advertised products!

Here, in the advertisements, are products of sound worth brought to your attention. Products manufactured to standards of certain quality, that have been tried and tested by the most exacting persons . . . people who have bought them, and used them over and over again. Products worth your money.

Get the habit of reading advertisements. It pays.

Roundabout Legislation

There is no provision in the Constitution for the repeal of an amendment, and no amendment has ever been repealed. Most authorities agree that the only way to accomplish such an object would be to pass another amendment to annul the previous amendment.

It pays to know

When you spend your money for the seven and seventy things that are always popping out of nowhere to demand a portion of your income, you want to be certain they are returning the utmost in value for your every dollar.

But how can you know the worth of the products you buy? Can you test them scientifically?

Can you make microscopic examinations for flaws and imperfections? Chemical analyses for purity and composition? Physical machine-tests for stress and strain, strength and durability? Have you laboratories equipped for this work? Can you afford the scientists and research workers to perform it?

There is a less expensive way to safeguard your purchases. A better way to buy.

Buy products that have been tested by others! Products that have passed the most ruthless and rigid of all tests... that of actual use! Nationally known, nationally liked, nationally used products! Advertised products!

Here, in the advertisements, are products of sound worth brought to your attention. Products manufactured to standards of certain quality, that have been tried and tested by the most exacting persons... people who have bought them, and used them over and over again. Products worth your money.

CANZONERI NOW POINTS TO JUNIOR LIGHTWEIGHT CROWN

25,000 FANS SEE HIM WIN FROM ROUTIS

GREATEST INDOOR ATTENDANCE IN HISTORY OF CHICAGO FIGHTS

BRINGS 2 MEN TOGETHER WHO LIKE TO FIGHT, AND THEY SLASHED AWAY

Chicago, May 11.—(UP)—Partially avenged for the defeat which cost him his featherweight title, Tony Canzoneri, game little Italian fighter, stood out today as a logical contender for the junior lightweight title, which Tod Morgan now holds. The greatest indoor crowd in history—25,000—last night saw Canzoneri win a ten-round decision from Andre Routis, present featherweight champion, in a non-title bout. The victory did not allow the Italian to regain his title for he came in over the 126-pound featherweight limit. The bout was one of the greatest ever seen here. It brought two men together who really like to fight and they slashed away for the entire ten rounds. It was so close that there were more boos than cheers when Canzoneri was given the decision.

It took Routis two rounds to get started but in the latter part of the second the Frenchman tore loose with an attack which made Canzoneri seek a clinch for the first time since he has been fighting in Chicago.

The entire crowd came to its feet in the third when the two boxers stood toe to toe and slugged for almost the entire round. Routis took the round by a shade.

In the other ten rounds of the night, Otto Von Porat, Norway, knocked out Jack Demave, Holland, in a heavyweight match; and Armand Santiago knocked out Honeyboy Finnegan, featherweight.

Wilson was forced to run from centerfield clear to the New York bull pen for the catch and he nearly doubled Freddie Lindstrom at second, the latter believing it impossible to catch the ball.

Cincinnati climbed from seventh to fifth place in the National league by checking Boston, 5 to 3, at Boston. Earl Clark, centerfielder for the Braves, set a new record for the position with 12 putouts.

The Pittsburgh Pirates erased a seven run lead amassed by the Phillies to win, 13 to 9, at Philadelphia. Six runs in the eighth inning turned the tide for the Pirates.

Dazzy Vance struck out eight St. Louis Cardinals but the Brooklyn Dodgers were shut out by the western club, 4 to 0. Sylvester Johnson held the Robins to seven hits, while Vance yielded eight.

Babe Ruth hit his sixth homer of the year to feature the eighth straight victory of the New York Yankees. The Yanks defeated Detroit, 10 to 5, in Detroit and increased their lead in the American league.

Walter Miller held the Philadelphia Athletics to six hits and the Cleveland Indians won on their home field, 9 to 0. Earl Averill, rookie centerfielder, hit a home run in the third inning with the bases full.

Washington passed Chicago in the American chase, winning in the western metropolis by a 4 to 2 count. Garland Braxton let the White Sox down with four hits, lifting the Senators to sixth place.

The St. Louis Browns terminated a four game losing streak at St. Louis by beating Boston, 4 to 3, in a closely contested game. Ogden was the winning pitcher although he allowed the same number of hits as Ruffing—seven.

NOW ADMIT SUPREMACY OF UNITED STATES

VICTORY OF HAGEN WITH SCORE OF 292 AT MUIRFIELD WAS PHENOMENAL

BLANKET FINISH OF AMERICAN PROFESSIONALS, WINNING FIRST 3 PRIZES

By ARCH RODGERS (United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, May 11.—Deprived of their own open championship for the sixth time in as many years, British golfers today admitted the supremacy of the United States at the present and began looking to the future.

The victory of Walter Hagen yesterday with the phenomenal score of 292 for the long Muirfield course, and the blanket finish of the American professionals, who won the first three prizes and eight of the first 10 places, left no doubt as to the superiority of the invaders.

This was despite Britain's victory in the Ryder Cup matches, in which Hagen and his associates were decisively beaten.

Hagen's 75-67-75-75—292 was the third lowest score ever recorded in a British open, the first and second being held by Bobby Jones, also of the United States, who won in 1926 with a total of 291.

It was Hagen's second victory in the event in two years, his third in six years and his fourth in eight years.

The majority of the American professionals, including Johnny Farrell, who was second yesterday with a total of 298, and Leo Diegel, who was third with 299, will play several exhibition matches on British courses before going over on the continent for tournaments in Germany and France.

All of the players plan to return to the United States early next month for the American open championship to be played over the Winged Foot Club on Long Island.

A Good Sticker But—

© 1920, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

By QUIN HALL
IF PRESIDENT John Heydler's ten-man idea team had gone into effect in the National League this summer, Babe Herman, of the Brooklyn Robins, would have been one happy guy. Herman, if you don't know it, is quite a batsman. He would probably have been called upon to do all of the hitting for Uncle Robbie's twirlers and, with nothing to worry about but base hits, this young man could have fattened up his batting average considerably. Herman can hit. But under the present arrangement, which calls for a nine-man ball club, it is necessary that each member of the team do something aside from taking his regular turn at the platter. In other words, the Babe, like all rest of the Robins, must fill some position in the field. If he is to bat regularly he must play regularly.

Uncle Robbie, the robust pilot of the Brooklyn Club, likes the Babe. He enjoys watching Herman go up there and sock the apple. But it has been quite a problem for the manager to find a spot in the field where the Babe can be put—a place where he won't be given a chance to boot away too many ball games. Robbie tried the lanky kid at the initial corner but this didn't work out any too well. A first sacker has lots of opportunity to put runners out but when a first sacker starts miffing throws, the home fans are likely to start howling. So Herman was put out in the garden and even here he isn't the best outfielder in the league by any stretch of the imagination.

The Babe has his good afternoons and his bad afternoons. Some days he performs like a second Tris Speaker and other days he is simply terrible. When a bunch of fans get to rabbing, they only remember the bad afternoons. They seldom recall any of the sweet plays that a ball player may make. When they start discussing Herman they think up all the bum plays he has made in his life and it makes quite a total. But there are also some good spots in his career.

If he misses the first chance that comes to him any afternoon, he's liable to prove utterly ineffective for the rest of that game. He'll come in, or go back too far, on every ball hit into his territory and the fans won't let him forget that he is pretty terrible. On the other hand if Herman gets away to a swell catch on his first chance, he is just as likely as not to be a sennational fielder for the rest of the afternoon.

When he reported at Clearwater this Spring, he told Uncle Robbie that he had spent the Winter at Glendale, Cal., practicing up on catching fly balls and line drives to the outer garden. If this practice has improved his ability to any marked degree, the Brooklyn fans will arise and give the Babe a rousing cheer. If not they'll sit back as usual and pick his fielding to pieces. Baseball fans are like that.

But when it comes to base hits the home folks at Brooklyn seldom find any fault with Herman. He is a natural hitter and he loves to take his turn at the plate. So while they're knocking his fielding they might praise his stick work.

Which brings up the subject of whether hitting strength is more valuable to a club than fielding strength. Of course the ideal combination is to have a hundred per cent of each, but a case like Herman calls for an argument. Goslin, of the Senators, could scarcely return a ball from the outfield last year because of an injury, but he was carried along all summer because of his hitting. Which is the most valuable asset to a club—hitting or fielding? Your guess is probably as good as the next fellow's.

NOW ADMIT SUPREMACY OF UNITED STATES

VICTORY OF HAGEN WITH SCORE OF 292 AT MUIRFIELD WAS PHENOMENAL

BLANKET FINISH OF AMERICAN PROFESSIONALS, WINNING FIRST 3 PRIZES

London, May 11.—(UP)—Deprived of their own open championship for the sixth time in as many years, British golfers today admitted the supremacy of the United States at the present and began looking to the future.

The victory of Walter Hagen yesterday with the phenomenal score of 292 for the long Muirfield course, and the blanket finish of the American professionals who won the first three prizes and eight of the first 10 places, left no doubt as to the superiority of the invaders.

This was despite Britain's victory in the Ryder Cup matches, in which Hagen and his associates were decisively beaten.

Hagen's 75-67-75-75—292 was the third lowest score ever recorded in a British open, the first and second being held by Bobby Jones, also of the United States, who won in 1926 with a total of 291.

It was Hagen's second victory in the event in two years, his third in six years and his fourth in eight years.

The majority of the American professionals, including Johnny Farrell, who was second yesterday with a total of 298, and Leo Diegel, who was third with 299, will play several exhibition matches on British courses before going over on the continent for tournaments in Germany and France.

All of the players plan to return to the United States early next month for the American open championship to be played over the Winged Foot Club on Long Island.

DEPENDABILITY, SATISFACTION AND HONEST VALUE

Daphne

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

DAPHNE HAINES, seventeen and lovely, is literally driven from home by her nagging stepmother, whose sole interest is in her own daughter, Crystal. The second Mrs. Haines is determined that Crystal shall marry Ralph McKevitt, a handsome young man of wealth. Ralph, one day admires Daphne, whom he sees at a distance, and Mrs. Haines decides to permanently eliminate the younger girl, whose rivalry she secretly fears. She provokes a sordid quarrel in the household, and Daphne, realizing the helplessness of her position, leaves home to make her way in San Francisco. The quest for employment is difficult. She is almost starving when she encounters Ralph McKevitt, her stepmother's "prize" young man, in a cheap restaurant. He buys her a hearty meal and takes her home in his car. As weeks pass a nice friendship develops between them. Ralph secures a good position for the girl, and when he kisses her in the moonlight she feels she is in an earthly Paradise. The motley assortment of roomers at Daphne's house speculate "wisely" about her each time young McKevitt calls in his flashy car, but she finds two good friends in hard-boiled Flora McCordie and a love-starved little dressmaker called "Miss Viola." Back in the Haines home, Crystal announces that she too is leaving for the city where she intends studying music. Her mother implores her not to leave, but she is determined to go. All the way on the bus to San Francisco her thoughts are strangely of Daphne. Crystal spends her first evening in the city with Avery Woodward, a dreamy Bohemian, always broke, who promises to teach her the ways of art and life and love.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"I'll give you a ring before Monday," Ralph had said, but Sunday dragged to a funeral close without a word from him, and though Daphne was ready and waiting Monday evening, he did not come.

Tuesday passed, and Wednesday. "The days are getting shorter," Miss Viola complained, grudgingly lighting the gas in the hall right after supper. But days had never seemed so long to Daphne.

Flora McCordie dashed giggling down the stairs every night with a different "gentleman friend" and old Mrs. Hinkle peeked through her crack in the kitchen door and gumbled, "Out again! Ach, I don't know, aber when I was young we didn't run wild!" Once she pinched Daphne's cheek with her dark, workworn hand. "Dot's a good girl, not always mit boys, like my Viola, good, too."

"On!" Daphne rushed to her room, to throw herself wildly on the faded red couch and bury her head under the musty sofa cushions and cry in peace. To think that anyone, even old Mrs. Hinkle, could believe that she wanted to stay home night after night in this ghastly place . . . to think that nobody wanted her and she'd go on waiting and waiting forever . . . like Miss Viola.

But the tears of yesterday always gave place to the hopes of today. "He'll surely phone tonight . . . he's a busy man, I can't expect him to call me every night. And every night, long before 7 o'clock, she put on her best blue dress and her chiffon stockings, "just in case." She waited feverishly in her room, moving restlessly from the squeaky rocker to the dresser to add a last minute dab of powder, and back to the rocker, and over to the window . . . nervous . . . listening!

Listening for the telephone . . . waiting for him to come.

Before the first vibration had ceased she would be at the telephone in the hall, pulling the receiver off the hook.

"Hello!" Her voice shaking a little, her face all glowing and starry with hope.

But it was always for somebody else.

And every time she saw Flora wrapped in the rich summer ermine coat she thought, "If I had a coat like that he'd take me out. I—I don't blame him. He was—ashamed of me."

The more she thought of it, the surer she was that the old blue coat was to blame. She would hold it out and look at its shiny, shapeless sides. Would any self-respecting man want to go out with a coat like that? . . . That hateful last night . . . her cheeks burned again at the thought . . . going without a coat in the wind and the fog . . .

He must have seen the gooseflesh on her arms . . . must have felt her shivering. She gulped angrily. "He must have thought I was crazy!"

She thought of the credit shoes. But suppose something happened. Suppose she got sick, or lost her job before her purchases were paid for? And the ten dollars not yet paid back to Ralph . . . She would figure surreptitiously in the office when she should have been typing . . . Three yards of material at $2.50, and $4.00 a day for Miss Viola to make it. It would take her two days at least, maybe two and a half. And lining and buttons besides . . . oh dear . . .

Perhaps a sale coat would be better after all. If you paid $10 down and $1.00 a week for ten weeks . . .

The work would pile up while she would figure and plan and dream.

"Well, I gotta get rid of Miss Haines, that's all," Miss Abrams, the girl in charge of the office, said, "she gets worse all the time. Too bad, too, because she's a good typist."

Daphne found the notice on her desk the next morning. It was brief and business like. Her services would not be required after the first of September.

Break in Winter

The weather bureau says the term "January thaw" is rather loosely applied to any consecutive two or three days, or more, in January when the temperature is decidedly and noticeably above the average for that month. For much of this country that implies a temperature above the freezing point, accompanied, as a rule, by conspicuous thawing, at least through the day.

When Doing Your

Spring Cleaning

Daphne

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

DAPHNE HAINES, seventeen and lovely, is literally driven from home by her nagging stepmother, whose sole interest is in her own daughter, Crystal. The second Mrs. Haines is determined that Crystal shall marry Ralph McKevitt, a handsome young man of wealth. Ralph, one day admires Daphne, whom he sees at a distance, and Mrs. Haines decides to permanently eliminate the younger girl, whose rivalry she secretly fears. She provokes a sordid quarrel in the household, and Daphne, realizing the helplessness of her position, leaves home to make her way in San Francisco. The quest for employment is difficult. She is almost starving when she encounters Ralph McKevitt, her stepfather's "prize" young man, in a cheap restaurant. He buys her a hearty meal and takes her home in his car. As weeks pass a nice friendship develops between them. Ralph secures a good position for the girl, and when he kisses her in the moonlight she feels she is in an earthly Paradise. The motley assortment of roomers at Daphne's house speculate "wisely" about her each time young McKevitt calls in his flashy car, but she finds two good friends in hard-boiled Flora McCordle and a love-starved little dressmaker called "Miss Viola." Back in the Haines home Crystal announces that she too is leaving for the city where she intends studying music. Her mother implores her not to leave, but she is determined to go. All the way on the bus to San Francisco her thoughts are strangely of Daphne. Crystal spends her first evening in the city with Avery Woodward, a dreamy Bohemian, always broke, who promises to teach her the ways of art and life and love.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"I'll give you a ring before Monday," Ralph had said, but Sunday dragged to a funeral close without a word from him, and though Daphne was ready and waiting Monday evening, he did not come.

Tuesday passed, and Wednesday. The days are getting shorter," Miss Viola complained, gradually lighting the gas in the hall right after supper. But days had never seemed so long to Daphne.

Flora McCordle dashed giggling down the stairs every night with a different "gentleman friend" and old Mrs. Hinkle pecked through her crack in the kitchen door and gumbled, "Out again! Ach, I gumbled, 'aer when I was young we didn't run wild!" Once she pinched Daphne's cheek with her dark, workman hand. "Dot's a good girl, not always mit boys... like my Viola. good, too."

"Oh!" Daphne rushed to her room, to throw herself wildly on the faded red couch and bury her head under the musty sofa cushions and cry in peace. To think that anyone, even old Mrs. Hinkle, could believe that she wanted to stay home night after night in this ghastly place... to think that nobody wanted her and she'd go on waiting and waiting forever... like Miss Viola.

But the tears of yesterday always gave place to the hopes of today. "He'll surely phone tonight," he's a busy man, I can't expect him to call me every night.

And every night, long before 7 o'clock, she put on her best blue dress and her chiffon stockings "just in case." She waited feverishly in her room, moving restlessly from the squeaky rocker to the dresser to add a last minute dab of powder, and back to the rocker, and over to the window nervous... listening!

Listening for the telephone waiting for him to come.

Before the first vibration had ceased she would be at the telephone in the hall, pulling the receiver off the hook.

"Hello!" Her voice shaking a little, her face all glowing and starchy with hope.

But it was always for somebody else.

And every time she saw Flora wrapped in the rich summer emerald she thought, "If I had a coat like that he'd take me out. I—I don't blame him. He was ashamed of me."

The more she thought of it, the surer she was that the old blue coat was to blame. She would hold it up and look at its shiny, shapeless sides. Would any self-respecting man want to go out with a coat like that? And that hateful last night... her cheeks burned again at the thought... going without a coat in the wind and the fog... He must have seen the gooseflesh on her arms... must have felt her shivering. She gulped angrily. "He must have thought I was crazy!"

She thought of the credit shops. But suppose something happened. Suppose she got sick, or lost her job before her purchases were paid for? And the ten dollars not yet paid back to Ralph...

She would figure surreptitiously in the office when she should have been typing... Three yards of material at $2.50, and $4.00 a day for Miss Viola to make it. It would take her two days at least, maybe two and a half. And lining and buttons besides... oh dear!

Perhaps a sale coat would be better after all. If you paid $10 down and $1.00 a week for ten weeks...

The work would pile up while she would figure and plan and dream.

"Well, I gotta get rid of Miss Haines, that's all," Miss Abrams, the girl in charge of the office, said, "she gets worse all the time. Too bad, too, because she's a good typist."

Daphne found the notice on her desk the next morning. It was brief and business like. Her services would not be required after the first of September.

Kind, courteous and final. No explanation as to why they no longer required her services. No second chance.

Now I have something to worry about!" she thought miserably, tossing on the lumpy couch that night, but not even losing the job seemed as important as losing Ralph.

Even getting out of the house at night didn't help. No sooner would she get three blocks away than she would have a terrible feeling that he was calling, and run all the way home, only to find out that no one had called at all.

Sometimes Miss Viola insisted on accompanying her on the short walks that she wanted so much to be solitary. Poor Miss Viola, hurrying along on her fat feet, holding tight to Daphne's arm, puffing a little as she talked.

But Sunday was the worst. Everybody, even the Hinkles, went out. Mrs. Spellman and Mrs. Halliday, the married ladies who wore kimonos until five o'clock on other days, emerged from their flannellette cocoons like middle-aged butterflies. Dressy and perspiring, ready for an afternoon at the movies with their freshly shaved and brushed husbands.

Break in Winter

The weather bureau says the term "January thaw" is rather loosely applied to any consecutive two or three days, or more, in January when the temperature is decidedly and noticeably above the average for that month. For much of this country that implies a temperature above the freezing point, accompanied, as a rule, by conspicuous thawing, at least through the day.

Local Headquarters for the Famous Red Top STEEL FENCE POSTS

RIGHT here is the place to get those Red Top Steel Fence Posts you see advertised in your farm papers.

This Red Top is a proved post—tested by farmers in thousands of fence lines. It's got a mighty good record right around here. The Studied Red Top is extra strong without a weak spot in it. It has a long life. You can drive over 200 of them in a day with the One-Man Driver. The Handy Fasteners that come free with the posts are made so as to hold the wire securely, thus doing away with restapling and restretching.

The Red Top post is guaranteed by the maker. Their guarantee is worth one hundred cents on the dollar. We are authorized to make all adjustments. So we put our own personal endorsement and guarantee on every Red Top we sell.

It's just that kind of an article we like to handle in all lines, the leader in its field. One of the main points we look at in our buying is to get the makes of goods that give our customers the most value for the money. We don't expect to prosper unless you get a good dollar's worth for every dollar you spend.

Drop in and see us when you're in town. Prices are mighty reasonable just now on fencing materials and many other special items.
